

LSC 300-01 (F '21)

- a. To direct my academic experience, LSC300 has guided me to take the following steps this term:
 - Declare a major, check out my program evaluation, etc.
 - get more involved
 - Become acclimated with the resources around campus.
 - Strongly Agree
 - Getting to know my academic resources and what is available to me.
 - Get involved in things I otherwise would have not. APEP program
 - Keep on task and focused with my schoolwork. Start keeping better track of my activities and commitments.
 - Motivation
 - To meet with core to discuss my next two years here at Augustana, and other services like the RWC to help make sure I succeed in my classes.
 - Create more engagement with my teachers and not being afraid to ask for help.
 - Become a better writer and researcher, seek help from the RWC when needed, and connect with other individuals on campus for help.
 - The readings encouraged a new mindset that helped me tackle challenges in the classroom.
 - I have learned and used resources such as the reading and writing center which will help me academically.
 - I have met with Keri Bass in CORE. I have been taking steps to declare a major and to find a career path.
 - to ask for help, where to go, and how to ask
 - To approach my studies especially papers with the way of paying attention to drafts and revision process
 - Reach out to others for assistance because they are there to help me.

- b. To direct my experience connecting with others on campus, LSC300 has guided me to take the following steps this term:
 - joining clubs
 - know what resources are out there for me to use
 - Be more comfortable being myself.
 - Strongly Agree
 - Reach out to different organizations.

- I joined a club and now know about other clubs that interest me.
 - Showed me different areas on campus where I can go if I need to, also helping me to meet friends in the classroom.
 - Join a club
 - Encouraged me to get involved. Though I quit the club I was in, I have already found another one that is a perfect fit for me.
 - Be more involved and join more clubs
 - Reach out to clubs and organizations to join, email CORE for help with various things, and don't be afraid to reach out to relevant Augie services for help.
 - Going around campus and seeing what it has to offer made me more comfortable talking with people and connecting with sources like CORE and the reading and writing center.
 - I have met others through various groups I would not have joined or known about if it were not for this class.
 - I have learned more about my classmates and the different clubs through this class.
 - to join groups, to communicate with each other, and to ask questions
 - Join clubs of my personal interest to meet people outside this course
 - Go to the reading writing center for example and do not be afraid to reach out when I need help.
- c. To direct my understanding myself and my life beyond campus, LSC300 has guided me to take the following steps this term:
 - using the materials we read throughout class and discussions that deal with what it means to be liberally educated and how to do that after college
 - new perspectives and ways of thinking
 - Understand how powerful perception is and how to have power over my thoughts.
 - Agree
 - Challenge my own thoughts and determine what a more suitable/ unsuitable solution is.
 - Talk to individuals at the CORE offices.
 - To slow down and evaluate what I'm doing before I do it, and to also understand how to set priorities
 - Start yoga and mindfulness practices
 - Talk to CORE, which will require more than one visit
 - Have a positive mindset and be open to anything that comes my way
 - Reflect on my challenges and strengths to apply it to what I want to do in the future, reach out to CORE for help finding a major and internships, and work hard in the classroom to build connections.

- Meeting with a faculty member of CORE really helped me to know what I wanted to do when I am done with college and the steps I need to take to achieve that.
 - I have learned more about my learning habits and have gotten many tips and tricks that will help me not only in college but after as well.
 - To think about life outside of college, what I want to accomplish and how I should approach future learning in and out of the classroom.
 - to reach out for help and seek challenges
 - Meet with counselors and advisors to discuss my vocation and career pathway of interest
 - Take pride in the work that I do and know that although some things can be complex and difficult, they are for a reason and it is good to be challenged to grow as a student.

- 10. Please use the remaining space to write additional comments on the successes and limitations of LSC300.
 - No additional comments; I liked this class
 - I really enjoyed this class, It has been the only class this semester i haven't questioned the purpose behind it.
 - None
 - Some of the readings were extremely insightful and helped with my understanding of what it means to be liberally educated. However, there were some points that I found moot when it came to guest speakers and places around campus. I didn't find it necessary to include a walk through on how to register for courses, as this is something I did over the summer, but I can see how this could be helpful to some
 - Tis a tragedy it is only 7 weeks long.
 - possibly a campus tour one class day
 - This class was great! And Dr. Gould was an enjoyable professor. Thanks for everything.
 - LSC has made getting to know the campus and its resources easier, as well as branching out and trying new clubs/activities
 - N/A
 - There was a lot of reading for a one credit class but other than that the conversations were very helpful and understandable.
 - I think this class was helpful in readjusting to "real", not Zoom, school and reading complex texts again.
 - I really appreciated this class and felt like it helped me adjust to Augie really well. I think the class was very well taught and kept me engaged throughout.

- I really enjoyed this class and learned about many resources. I liked that we were required to go to some of the resources, it will make it easier to go to them in the future.
- Great class! Very informative and engaging
- I didn't participate much in this class because of personal reasons, but I understand how important it is.
- This course was successful at introducing me to basic concepts that will be useful to my learning at Augustana.
- I felt like I grew as a student with a new understanding and approach into learning.
